Choosing your career path is a major decision

So you’ve decided you want to attend college, but you’re not sure what you want to study or what career path is right for you? We can help you get there. Greenville Technical College (GTC) Career Services has the resources to help you explore the opportunities that are ideal for your interests, talents, and goals. Learn about local jobs, salaries, and employers, and find out how to get the education to qualify.

Once you’ve determined what career you want to pursue, Career Services staff can help put you on the right path to success. GTC provides the education and training you need to succeed, offering more than 100 programs including skill-specific certificates, focused diplomas, and associate degrees.

How we can help

GTC Career Services offers assistance to entering students, current students, alumni, and employers. Visit the website at www.gvltec.edu/career-services/ for a comprehensive list of services, many of which are available online.

Career assessment

Whether you are entering the workforce for the first time or thinking of changing directions mid-life, evaluating your interests, skills, personality and work values can give you an idea of the best direction to begin your career path. One-on-one career counseling is available by appointment, or you can use some of the recommended resources online to start the process on your own.

TypeFocus Careers

TypeFocus Careers is the most advanced Internet-based career program available. The reports, tools and features of this advanced web-based career program will help you achieve your educational and career planning goals.

- Discover which careers best suit your individual strengths through four interactive career assessments.
- Narrow your search from thousands of career choices to a few dozen and become confident that you are on the right track.
- Discover what further training is needed and create educational goals and career plans.
- Further fine-tune your choices with more search options such as the fastest growing jobs or green careers or by knowledge or skills.
Career exploration

Once you know the career area you want to explore, the resources provided by Career Services can help you understand the range of occupations and opportunities within that field. This includes providing information about career paths, including market and salary information, as well as real-life experiences of Greenville Technical College graduates.

Career Coach

Career Coach is an online portal designed to help you find a good career by providing the most current local data on wages, employment, job postings, and associated education and training. Through Career Coach, GTC can help provide you with the information you need to be comfortable that the career you are interested in training for:

1) Can pay you well enough
2) Will be in demand when you graduate
3) Has a clear training path at Greenville Technical College

How do I start?

Start by going online to www.gvltec.edu/career-services/ and exploring the many resources and tools available to you. If you have questions, call the Career Center at (864) 250-8139. Selecting your college major or career path doesn’t have to feel overwhelming. Let us help guide you.